THE CONFERENCE

This two-hour event marks the first public dissemination milestone of the JustUrbanities project

The conference will present the first year's results of the project and introduce the Community of Practice - a transnational network of educators, researchers, civic actors, and public authorities dedicated to reimagining urban participation through gamified learning and collaborative tools.

Through the presentations of the project partners we will explore:

- What we have learned about local needs and practices during the first year of the project;
- How to strengthen participatory resilience in European neighbourhoods facing multiple crises.

JUSTURBANITIES Project

JustUrbanities explores how gamification, participatory learning, and digital tools can create new ways for citizens, local administrations, and stakeholders to collaborate, co-design, and act together for more just and sustainable cities. The project is a three-year-long project financed by the Erasmus+ KA2 program.

WHO CAN JOIN

Researchers, educators, urban planners, local authorities, community leaders, NGOs, and everyone interested in civic participation, community resilience, and urban innovation.
